Providing personalized care in a home-like setting

Bringing a baby into the world can be one of the most precious times in a mother's life. At North Fulton Regional Hospital, patients and their families work with our skilled team of professionals to choose their plan for labor, delivery and post-partum care. Our family-centered environment allows for flexibility in birth choices including labor balls, tubs for relaxation during labor, and a birthing pool for water birth. The entire maternal area is equipped with an updated, advanced infant security system, and all of the units are just steps away from one another.

Labor and Delivery

The concept of family-centered care is reflected throughout labor and delivery, from the area for infant care in each labor and delivery room to the sleeper sofas for Dad to spend the night. The warm décor of the dark wood and the tubs and showers available in all six labor and delivery suites conveys a home-like feeling for our patients.

Most deliveries occur in the labor and delivery suites, but the operating rooms and neonatal intensive care nursery are steps away should the need arise.

Education

Education is an important part of the labor and delivery experience. North Fulton Regional Hospital offers an array of perinatal education classes before and after delivery. Our classes include:
